

“Telling Our Stories: Social Studies Education”

Illinois Council for the Social Studies
2025 Spring Conference

April 10, 2025
Eastern Illinois University
Charleston, IL

Welcome to the 2025 ICSS Spring Conference

First, on behalf of the Illinois Council for the Social Studies, I want to thank you for taking the day to engage with social studies education today at our spring conference. This conference gives everyone who attends the opportunity to contribute to the professional dialogue through session presentations and networking with colleagues across Illinois and beyond. Our students need to understand how to navigate and engage in civil dialogue to better address societal concerns. Social Studies teachers today, as in the past, are tasked with exploring the narrative of our histories with our students, however right now this is a volatile task for our educators. What better way to respond to these challenges than for teachers and others to take part in our conference where participants will explore a variety of topics and sessions that are pertinent to social studies students and teachers in the field across grade levels and social studies content areas.

As you move through the sessions, keep in mind that you can be a part of the conference in the future. At ICSS, we are always looking for new and innovative ways to engage with social studies education in the State of Illinois. Look out for our call for proposals for future conferences.

We would also like to encourage you to think about joining the leadership team at ICSS through service on the Executive Board or Board Committees. Our organization depends on great social studies educators in a variety of venues and grade levels giving their time and expertise to continue to grow by bringing resources and support to our members. If you are passionate about supporting such a mission, reach out to the organization and see where you can help.

Once again, Welcome and I hope you enjoy your day.
